

Episode Nine – Analysis Transcript

Muzz: So, shall we do this feedback?

Delia: Yeah, I reckon we should just start with the intro and work our way through everything.

Shireen: Yeah, and we've gotta be really honest as well, we can't take this criticism personally. So, from the top. What did everyone think of Delia's intro?

Vikki: Yeah, it was really good, but it'd be better if you looked up a bit more.

Rob: Yeah, you just looked at your notes: it were boring. You need to get eye contact with your audience: you only looked up once.

Delia: Well, maybe it'd be better if I read off the slides rather than having my notes in front of me. I'd have to put my writing on the slides though.

Shireen: No, because then it looks like you don't know what you're talking about. Plus the audience could just read it for themselves then, couldn't they?

Muzz: We can't put any more information on the slides. It'll be too overcrowded.

Delia: Okay, well I don't know what I can do then. I've got loads to remember, and I get nervous: I'll mess it up.

Vikki: Yeah, it's hard when you're nervous, but we've all got to present a section. Look, why don't I help you rehearse, then if you forget it on the day, I can prompt you?

Muzz: Or you could use prompt cards, like I did. I can help you make some.

Delia: Yeah, that'd be really good, actually. Look, I will know it by next week. Don't worry: I'll get it sorted.

Vikki: So what about the role play?

Delia: Oh, that was really good, but you can't all laugh like that.

Vikki: I know, but we can't help it! Rob makes us laugh.

Delia: You've just gotta ignore him. Look, if you laugh like that on the day, it's just gonna be embarrassing for us all.

Rob: I'm not gonna do that on the day: I'm not stupid!

Vikki: I am worried I'm gonna laugh though.

Rob: Seriously, I won't make you laugh.

Vikki: You won't have to do anything now, because I've got that image of you doing that in my head, and once I get the giggles I can't stop.

Shireen: But you've just gotta...think of something serious.

Muzz: Or you could just pinch yourself. Always works for me.
[Group laughs]

Muzz: So, how was the conclusion? Was I clear enough, Rob?

Rob: You surprised me, Muzz. You were actually really clear, yeah.

Muzz: Good. Thank you.

Delia: It was, it was good. It was really loud and really clear.

Vikki: Yeah it was really good, but it didn't quite fit with the introduction and the role play. You just didn't answer some of the questions that Delia raised in the introduction.

Muzz: Okay, so we can look at that and change it.

Shireen: And it finished a bit abruptly as well.

Rob: Well, at that point, you can ask them if they've got any questions.

Delia: Are you sure it's a good idea to ask them for questions?

Shireen: We might not be able to answer them!
