

Episode 3 - Muzz video diary Transcript

I'm still enjoying the project: it's going very well. There were a few disagreements today, but nothing that can't be sorted out. We need to discuss more, and listen more. I like Delia: she's quiet, but she listens. I think if she took more control, she could probably make things run smoother. She's clever, but she wouldn't want to upset anyone. I could probably sort things out too, but I don't think they would listen to me. Sometimes when people get excited, when they get excited they speak very fast and I have difficulty keeping up with the language. They think I can't understand but I can: I understand okay. But sometimes I just need to think about things in my head. Not translate, no. But just, turn things around in my head.

Next week we will talk about barriers: our barriers on learning. I will tell them about English for me as a second language. Maybe they will understand then.
